11th Grade Summer Reading

American Literature

Mr. Roff & Mrs. Rosenberg

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This junior level course is a survey of both classic and modern works of American literature and culture. The American Dream, a belief in the possibility and opportunity presented by life in the United States of America, is a main theme discussed during the beginning of our course. We will analyze and evaluate this dream both historically and in our current culture.

Your summer reading assignments will introduce you to the themes of this class. First, read one of the following nonfiction memoirs. The authors of these books discuss the American Dream from their own perspectives. Be ready to discuss your chosen book when you return to school in August. If you annotate as you read (underlining important and interesting passages, making comments and posing questions in the margins), you will be more likely to interact with the text in a meaningful way and be better prepared to discuss it later.

Read ONE of the following nonfiction books:

The Color of Water: A Black Man's Tribute to His White Mother* by James McBride

ISBN: 978-1-59448-192-5

This book is, indeed, a tribute to the author's mother. In it, the author, a man whose mother was white and his father black, tells two stories: that of his mother and his own. Tautly written in spare, clear prose, it is a wonderful story of a bi-racial family who succeeded and achieved the American dream, despite the societal obstacles placed in its way.

The Distance Between Us* by Reyna Grande

ISBN: 978-1451661781

In this inspirational and unflinchingly honest memoir, acclaimed author Reyna Grande describes her childhood torn between the United States and Mexico, and shines a light on the experiences, fears, and hopes of those who choose to make the harrowing journey across the border. Reyna Grande vividly brings to life her tumultuous early years in this compelling story of a childhood spent torn between two parents and two countries. As her parents make the dangerous trek across the Mexican border to "El Otro Lado" (The Other Side) in pursuit of The American Dream, Reyna and her siblings are forced into the already overburdened household of their stern grandmother. When their mother at last returns, Reyna prepares for her own journey to "El Otro Lado" to live with the man who has haunted her imagination for years, her long-absent father.

Where the Light Fell: A Memoir by Philip Yancey

ISBN: 978-0593238509

Where the Light Fell is a gripping family narrative set against a turbulent time in post-World War II America, shaped by the collision of Southern fundamentalism with the mounting pressures of the civil rights movement and Sixties-era forces of social change. In piecing together his fragmented personal history and his search for redemption, Yancey gives testament to the enduring power of our hunger for truth and the possibility of faith rooted in grace instead of fear. Searching for answers, Yancey dives into his family origins, taking us on an evocative journey from the backwoods of the Bible Belt to the bustling streets of Philadelphia; from trailer parks to church sanctuaries; from family oddballs to fire-and-brimstone preachers and childhood awakenings through nature, music, and literature. In time, the weight of religious and family pressure sent both sons on opposite paths—one toward healing from the impact of what he calls a “toxic faith,” the other into a self-destructive spiral.

Educated: A Memoir by Tara Westover

ISBN: 978-0399590504

Born to survivalists in the mountains of Idaho, Tara Westover was seventeen the first time she set foot in a classroom. Her family was so isolated from mainstream society that there was no one to ensure the children received an education, and no one to intervene when one of Tara’s older brothers became violent. When another brother got himself into college, Tara decided to try a new kind of life. Her quest for knowledge transformed her, taking her over oceans and across continents, to Harvard and to Cambridge University. Only then would she wonder if she’d traveled too far, if there was still a way home.

Warning about abuse: Many will find the depiction of physical abuse Tara experiences at the hands of her older brother difficult to read; if in question, please choose one of the other books.

Funny in Farsi: A Memoir of Growing Up Iranian in America by Firoozeh Dumas

ISBN: 978-8-12-968378

In 1972, when she was seven, Firoozeh Dumas and her family moved from Iran to Southern California, arriving with no firsthand knowledge of this country beyond her father’s glowing memories of his graduate school years here. More family soon followed, and the clan has been here ever since. Funny in Farsi chronicles the American journey of Dumas’s wonderfully engaging family: her engineer father who lost his job during the Iranian revolution; her elegant mother, who never fully mastered English (nor cared to); and Firoozeh herself, who as a girl changed her name to Julie, and who encountered a second wave of culture shock when she met and married a Frenchman, becoming part of a one-couple melting pot.

You will be required to keep a Reading Journal for the CHOICE memoir (See instructions on the following page)

11th Grade Summer Reading - Keeping a Reading Journal

In order to help you successfully complete this year's summer reading assignment, you will be asked to keep a journal as you read. In this journal (can be typed or handwritten), you can record your thoughts as you progress through the story. Below you will find several prompts that you should use to focus your journal entries.

Your reading journal will be your first graded assignment for your junior English class.

Instructions:

- Date each entry.
- Fully develop your response with examples and explanations, including cited textual evidence.
- Create THREE different journal entries. (perhaps divide your novel into three sections and respond to one prompt per section).
- Each entry should be a minimum of ONE page in length.
- You may use personal language such as "I" or "me" since these responses are not formal essays.

Summer Reading Journal Prompts

1. How are characters developing as the story progresses? How do you personally feel about specific characters? Are some characters more dynamic than others (do they change during the story)? How have the events or other characters influenced or motivated the actions of certain characters?
2. What are some of the recurring themes, ideas, images, and/or symbols (we call these "motifs")? Why do you think the author might be repeating these recurring elements? How do these motifs add to the meaning of the story?
3. What are the major conflicts in the story? Why have these conflicts formed and how are these conflicts developing? Would you categorize these conflicts as external (from outside sources) or internal (within the characters)?
4. Can you relate or make any connections to the characters in this book? How have you been able to empathize with these characters? How do specific parts of the story remind you of your own life?
5. Who is the narrator of the story? How does the narrator of the story influence or affect the manner in which the story is told? Why would the author have selected this particular narrator for the story? How might a different narrator change or alter the story?
6. Write a letter to one of the characters from the book. Attempt to offer this character advice based on their situation or conflict. You should include at least two specific events which this character is a part of during the story. You may also ask questions.
7. Evaluate the writing style of the author. What are the techniques that the author frequently makes use of and how effective are these techniques? You have also looked at how the author develops a tone for their subject through word choice.
8. If you could be or become one of the characters from the story for one day, who would you choose and why? Which character would you most certainly not want to be and why? Include elements of your own personality and interests to help explain your reasoning.
9. What is the overall mood (feeling given to the reader) created by this story? What are some examples of how the author creates this mood or feeling within their audience?

10. Choose one passage from the story that you believe is vital and important in understanding the overall text. Write the passage down (including citation) and then explain the importance of the passage. Include a discussion of any literary elements you notice being used to create meaning.
11. What, in your opinion, is the overall theme or message of the story? How does the author develop this message or theme throughout the text? What are some scenes or events in the story that directly point to this message?
12. What is your overall opinion of the story? In your evaluation or review, consider which elements of the story are effective/enjoyable and which elements from the story you might change or improve. Provide specific examples of the strengths or weaknesses of the book.
